

WHAT WOULD GEORGE DO?

Our namesake, George Washington, lived by the credo “deeds not words,” holding himself and others to a high ethical standard. As members of the university community it is up to us to do the same.

At GW, we conduct our activities with the highest standards of conduct in mind.

MAKE SMART CHOICES

When you have a difficult decision to make, ask yourself the following questions:

- 1. Does the action comply with the law and/or university policies?
- 2. Is the action consistent with GW's values?
- 3. Do you think it is the right thing to do?

If you believe the answer to any of these questions is "no" or you are unsure, then ask for help by discussing with your supervisor or department head, or contact us for assistance, prior to making the decision.
